

Health and Safety - Looking after Your Business

Managing health and safety is an important part of looking after your business. A strong culture of health and safety is and will remain an essential springboard for the future success and enduring competitiveness of any company, large or small.

The “Health and Safety – Looking after Your Business” course is designed to help you identify and understand what you must do and can do to protect the Health and Safety of your workers and others who might be affected by your work. This Health and Safety course is focused on sensible, proportionate actions that protect people - not on unnecessary bureaucracy and paperwork.

Who should attend

- This is a course for managers and supervisors in any sector and any organisation who have the role and / or responsibility for managing health and safety.

Delegate benefits

- Understand what competent advice means and who can provide it
- Develop personal techniques to manage health and safety in the working environment
- Know what your boundaries and limitations are - when to source specialist advice

Organisation benefits

- Legal compliance and promotion of best practice
- Improved morale and a better working environment
- Reduced risk of incident related claims and awards

Content

- Identify and understand the ‘Ten Steps’ to effective health and safety management as the key actions required by law, that apply to nearly all businesses
- Develop effective policies that reflect the risk and controls required for your business
- Develop strategies & tactics to help your organisation & employees perform positively
- Help managers get the best from their people by promoting a healthy workforce

COURSE INFORMATION

Date: 18/11/09, 1.30 – 4.30

Price: £45 to BUBC members

£55 to non members

For more information about this programme contact David

Roberts on 01248 365997 or email at:

david.w.roberts@bangor.ac.uk